IN THE NEWS

Traders Eye $4.30 as Weather Forecast Fuels Bullish Momentum

Natural gas futures break $3.647, setting sights on $4.300 as cold weather fuels bullish sentiment. January weather forecasts hint at colder-than-average temperatures, boosting heating demand globally. EIA reports a 125 Bcf withdrawal, cutting storage to 3,622 Bcf, underscoring tightening winter supply. U.S. natural gas futures rose sharply on Friday, breaking the key October resistance level of $3.647. This move positions prices for further gains, with the next major resistance at $4.300. On the downside, the 200-day moving average at $3.366 serves as critical support, reflecting long-term trend control. The market's response to $3.647 into Friday's close will likely dictate near-term direction. The U.S. Energy Information Administration (EIA) reported a 125 Bcf withdrawal from natural gas storage for the week en... <https://tinyurl.com/3h38aj89>

Get Ready for Natural Gas Selloff After Bullish Blinge

European gas prices rallied as a result of tighter supply as the Ukraine gas transit deal is nearing its end. Despite the ongoing uncertainty about winter weather and supply, EU gas prices could drop as a result of profit taking. Global Risk Management: "The heavy concentration of positions stresses the market". European natural gas futures rebounded to over €41.5 per megawatt-hour on Tuesday, up from the over one-month low of €39.5 they touched on Monday as markets continue assessing the outlook of gas supply to Europe and the Ukraine gas transit deal comes to an end. Several gas companies and network operators in Hungary and Slovakia, which cover clients from Italy and Austria, have been pushing for the European Commission to extend the Ukraine transit deal beyond 2024. However, the EC a... For more info go to <https://tinyurl.com/2vumd39j>

Will Bullish EIA Report Push Prices to $3.647 Today?

Colder January forecasts boost natural gas demand as futures test $3.647 resistance. Will bullish momentum hold? EIA report predicts a storage draw of -130 Bcf, far above the 5-year average. Traders expect market volatility today. Natural gas gains technical support at $3.366, with $3.647 resistance in focus for a potential breakout. Frosty U.S. weather intensifies weekend demand, driving bullish sentiment for natural gas futures. U.S. natural gas futures climbed higher on Thursday, bolstered by technical momentum and expectations of colder mid-January weather. Prices breached key resistance levels during the prior session, with the 200-day moving average at $3.366 and the 50% pivot level at $3.444 now serving as potential support. At 15:14 GMT, Natural Gas Futures are trading $3.485, up $... For more info go to <https://tinyurl.com/2s6x5ebk>
