IN THE NEWS

Output will take months to recover

LONDON, June 15 - A framework agreement between the U.S. and Iran on terms to end their war and reopen the Strait of Hormuz sent oil prices tumbling, as traders anticipated the return of flows. But industry officials say a full return to pre-war production and refining levels is likely to take weeks, months or even years. The following explores the main energy implications of the tentative deal. For more info go to..... <https://tinyurl.com/yvrefvsk>

O&G prices fall as peace deal is announced

The US and Iran have reached an agreement to end the war and reopen the Strait of Hormuz. "The deal with the Islamic Republic of Iran is now complete," US President Donald Trump wrote on his Truth Social platform on Sunday morning. The memorandum of understanding is scheduled to be officially signed on Friday in Switzerland, Reuters reported. Following the news, prices of both gas and oil began to fall.... ##### Argentina's NGL Project Gets Green Light

Transportadora de Gas del Sur (TGS) has taken a major step forward in Argentina's midstream sector, confirming a final investment decision (FID) for its US$3 billion Natural Gas Liquids (NGLs) project in Vaca Muerta — now positioned as the largest liquids processing investment in the country's history. The company's board has approved key commercial agreements with YPF, Pluspetrol, and Chevron, securing commitments covering more than 80% of the project's capacity. ...
